To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to highly recommend Langston Johnson, who served as an intern on our Mission Management team at Amazon's Project Kuiper this past summer. During his time with us, Langston demonstrated exceptional initiative, technical aptitude, and professional maturity that set him apart.

Langston quickly grasped the complexities of our launch operations organization and the intricate interactions between cross-functional teams. What particularly impressed me was his proactive approach to problem-solving. Rather than simply completing assigned tasks, he identified an efficiency gap in our processes and took the initiative to develop an automated solution to a daily status tool that typically required burdensome manual updating. He developed a comprehensive PR-FAQ document outlining the tool's functionality and benefits, then proceeded to collaborate across teams to access necessary databases, develop automated scripts, and deliver a prototype working product during his abbreviated tenure.

His ability to navigate a complex organizational structure, build relationships with key stakeholders, and drive results demonstrates maturity beyond his years. Langston consistently exhibited professionalism in his interactions, showed strong intellectual curiosity, and proved to be an excellent team player.

Based on his performance during the internship, I am confident that Langston would be a valuable asset to any organization. He combines technical skills with business acumen, and his drive to improve processes and systems around him makes him stand out among his peers.

Please feel free to contact me if you need any additional information about Langston's capabilities or performance.

Sincerely,

Sean Stoker
